Article V.

On every insured parcel sent under this agreement the Administration of the country of origin may levy the following charges to be paid by the sender in addition to the insurance fee provided for in Article III.

(r) A registration fee not exceeding 3 annas for each parcel.

(2) A supplementary charge to complete the insurance of the parcel against the risks arising from causes beyond control (force majeure).

The registration fee and the supplementary insurance fee shall be retained by the office which levies them; and the office levying the latter fee on any parcel is alone liable to give compensation for loss or damage arising to that parcel from causes beyond control during the whole course of transmission. Should either of the two Administrations levy a supplementary charge to cover risks arising from force majeure, this shall be notified to the other Administration.

Article VI.

When an insured parcel is redirected or is returned to the office of origin, a new insurance fee shall be collected from the addressee or the sender as the case may be. So far as the relations of the two Administrations are concerned the amount of the insurance fee on redirected or returned parcels and the apportionment of such amount shall be regulated in the same manner as the amount and apportionment of the fees levied on other insured parcels passing between the two countries, the country by which the parcel is redirected or returned being regarded for this purpose as the country of origin and the other as the country of destination.

Article VII.

Compensation for the loss or damage of insured parcels shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of the Parcel Post Convention of the Postal Union. In any case in which it is doubtful where the loss or damage occurred the two Administrations shall share the compensation paid in equal proportions.

2. If the Administration of the country of origin has elected under the foregoing Article V to levy a supplementary charge to complete the insurance of parcels against the risks arising from causes beyond control (force majeure), the fact that the loss or damage of a parcel on which such a fee has been levied, has arisen from causes beyond control shall not relieve the Administration in question from the liability to pay compensation.

Article VIII.

In the case of all parcels containing coin, bullion, precious stones, jewellery, or articles of gold or silver exchanged between India and Iraq, insurance is obligatory. If such a parcel is forwarded uninsured, the Administration which delivers it shall, subject to its internal legislation, be entitled to collect the proper insurance fee from the addressee, and to retain the same.

Article IX.

No parcel may be insured for an amount above the real value of its contents. In case the sender of an insured parcel, with intent to defraud, declares the contents to be above their real value, he loses all claim to compensation, and the enforcement of this rule does not prejudice any judicial proceedings of which the law of the country of origin may admit.

Article X.

The understanding which regulates the existing exchange of postal parcels between India and Iraq remains generally applicable to insured postal parcels. Moreover the following additional detailed regulations are applicable to such parcels :

(1) An insured parcel must bear on the cover a statement in Indian money of the amount for which it is insured, and no erasure or addition, even if certified, is allowed.

(2) An insured parcel must be so packed as to make it impossible for the contents to be tampered with without leaving an obvious trace of violation. It must also be sealed by means of sealing wax, lead or otherwise, with some special impress or mark of the sender.

(3) The exact weight of an insured parcel in kilogrammes and grammes must be entered by the Post Office of the country of origin on the cover of the parcel.

(4) Each insured parcel must bear a red label with the word "Insured" or "Valeur déclarée" upon it.

(5) The labels of insured parcels containing coin, bullion, precious stones, jewellery, or articles of gold or silver, must be so placed that they cannot serve to conceal injuries to the cover. They must not be folded over two sides of the cover so as to hide the edge. The address in such cases must be written on the actual covering of the parcel.

(6) The insured parcels shall be entered together on a separate parcel bill, which shall contain columns for the entry of the weight of each parcel, the amount for which it has been insured, the number of rates insured (one rate being counted for each Rs. 200 or fraction of Rs. 200 of insured value), and, in the case of redirected or returned parcels on which the insurance fees are to be collected on delivery, the amount of the insurance fee, according to the scale in force in the redirecting country, and the share for which the redirecting country claims credit.

Article XI.

The share of the insurance fees due from each Administration to the other shall be made the subject of a half-yearly account to be prepared by the Bombay office of exchange in Form A attached, and after acceptance the balance of the account shall be settled in the same manner as the balance of the account relating to the exchange of uninsured parcels between India and Iraq.
